

ENVS/REL 329: Religion and Ecology: Emory as Place Sustainability and Spiritual Practices

Tuesday/Thursday 11:30 – 12:45 p.m.
Emerson Hall – E504

Bobbi Patterson

bpatter@emory.edu

Candler Library 129, Office E

Office Hours:

Wednesday 1:00 – 3:00 p.m.

Thursday 3:00 – 4:30 p.m.

Christina Conroy

Christina.Conroy@emory.edu

Office Hours By Appointment

Chris Rutlen, Peer Educator (Learnlink)
Email for Appointments

Questions that Bring us Here

What do we mean when we use the word ‘place’? How do our connections to place reflect and shape our social, political, and cultural practices? What affects do places have on our ethical and spiritual assumptions, actions, and commitments? How does place connect to sustainability? And finally, what do we mean by place at Emory – how does connection to place affect our sustainability ethics at Emory?

We are also interested questions raising tensions, even chaos, associated with place. How do terms like landscape, terrain, and human geography interrelate – or not – to place? What are the embodied aspects of place? Are any of these aspects or definitions of place necessarily sacred? Can they be claimed – how have they been claimed - as sacred by some, including Buddhist and Christian contemplative traditions? How might Emory experience or define place as sacred?

Buddhist and Christian approaches to place

How do Buddhist and Christian texts, practices, philosophies and theologies connect with and/or challenge our understandings and experiences of place? More specifically, how do contemplative approaches in traditions craft attitudes about and interactions with histories, cultures, ethics, and spiritualities of place?

Our Class and Community

The initiating intention of this class is to experience and cultivate knowledge about, actions in, and ethics and spiritualities of place. As a learning and teaching community, this class generates shared motivation and dedication to the content, research, and exploration we share. In this class, as in places, interdependencies (in all their complexities of cultures, powers, and insights) are reality.

Course objectives: This Class will...

- Examine Christian and Buddhist writers and practitioners' assumptions about relationships with nature, place, and sustainability
- Explore and engage different places within Emory's campus, Atlanta, and the Piedmont forest within this bioregion (contemplative practices of stillness, meditation, observation, hiking, sensing, drawing, camping, etc.)
- Discover the differences between thinking about and experiencing the Inter/intra-relationships of place including spirituality and sustainability ethics,
- Create practices and educational experiences of Emory as Place for others.

Methods to Achieve Goals

Integration

This class will provide structured opportunities for integrating theory, method, and practice relevant to our driving questions.

Analysis

This class will provide structured opportunities for developing skills for close reading, critical assessment, and revision of assumptions based on class texts, experiences, and assignments

Reflection

This class will provide structured and ongoing opportunities for reflection on all class content and experiences, predominantly through the Working and Presenting Portfolio.

All students will abide by the Emory Honor Code.

Assignments

Readings Found in Reserves Direct

Working Portfolio

Due every other week for comments. 300 points

Presenting Portfolio

Due by 5pm on Friday, May 1
In the Department of Religion 400 points

 See handout for detailed instructions on working with a portfolio. **

Class participation

300 points

Includes preparedness for practices and discussions, participation in class activities, commitment to our thriving as a community of learners and teachers, and team leadership of a practice on hikes/overnights

Schedule of Readings and Experiences

 subject to change as the class unfolds – regularly check the on-line syllabus ***

January 15: Experiencing Place

Meet at Baker Woods (behind Carlos Hall)

Assignment: Theory Practice Learning

Assignment: Due next week : Write no more than a page: What drew you to this class? What do you hope for? What do you worry about? If you want, post your responses to our class conference, “Sharing Stuff”

January 20: Place, a Short Introduction

Assignment: Read Pages 1-51

January 22: Place, a Short Introduction

Assignment: Meet at Lullwater Gates
Read The Lullwater Management Plan

January 27: Place: Atlanta and Equity

Guest Speaker: Nathaniel Smith about the Regional Equity Summit

Assignment: Instructions for Portfolio

I. BUDDHIST CONTEMPLATIVES

January 29: The Place of the Environment in Buddhism

Assignment: Chapter 5: “Buddhism,” (pp. 161-207) in Richard C. Foltz, Worldviews, Religion, and the Environment

 January 31 – Walk the Forests of Emory, 2-4:30 pm *****

Place: Wesley Woods close to Briarcliff

Practice/Creativity: natural history, plant identification, sensing meditation, walking meditation

Assignment: “Conscious Breathing Meditation” – Chapters 1-3 (pp. 5-25)

February 3: Buddhist Contemplatives in the Forest

Assignment: “Forest Meditations” (read both selections)

Assignment: Turn in Portfolio (with at least 3 entries + 1 reading summary)

Introduction to Phenomenology Exercise

February 5: Practices of Place – Contemporary Buddhist Perspectives

Assignment: Gary Snyder “The Etiquette of Freedom,” (pp. 3-24); “Blue Mountains Constantly Walking,” (pp. 97-115)

February 10: Practices of Place – Contemporary Buddhist Perspectives

Assignment: Kurt Hoelting, “Circling Home”

II. CHRISTIAN CONTEMPLATIVES

February 12: Christian Contemplatives in the Ridges and Ravines of the Desert

Assignment: Belden Lane – “Connecting Spirituality and the Environment” (pp.9-21), “The Countercultural Spirituality of the Desert Christians” (pp.196-204)
Western Asceticism Readings

*February 14 -- Hike At Stone Mountain: Drawing Meditation**
With Professor Anne Hall

February 17: Christian Asceticism in the Ridges and Ravines of the Forest

Assignment: Phillip Sheldrake, “A Sense of Place” and “Place in Christian Tradition”

Assignment: Turn in Portfolio (with at least 6 entries + 2 reading summaries)
 One of these entries should be Phenomenology Exercise I **

February 19: Contemporary Christian Nuns and Ecological Renewal

Assignment: Sarah McFarland Taylor, “Reinhabiting Religion: Green Sisters, Ecological Renewal, and the Biogeography of Religious Landscape”

*EQUITY SUMMIT: FEBRUARY 21****

February 24: Practices of Place - Some Christian Perspectives

Assignment: Belden Lane – “Prayer Without Language in the Mystical Tradition”

February 26: Practices of Place – Some Christian Perspectives

Assignment: Selections from Thomas Merton

III. NATURE WRITING AND NATURAL HISTORY

March 3: “Secular” Eco-Asceticism

Assignment: Edward Abbey, Desert Solitaire (pp. ix - 73)

March 5: Natural History and Love

Assignment: Bernd Heinrich, “Sex in Trees”
Edward O. Wilson, Biophilia, selection

Assignment: Turn in Portfolio (with at least 9 entries + 3 reading summaries)
 You should include Phenomenology Exercise I and II *****

*SPRING BREAK****

IV. EMORY AS PLACE

March 17: Emory and Atlanta’s Watersheds

Assignment: David Kaufman, Peachtree Creek: A Natural and Unnatural History of Atlanta’s Watershed, “Introduction and Section 1”

Meet at Hahn Woods: Hahn Woods (on Houtson Mill, across from Miller Ward Alumni House). See online images at <http://www.creekimages.com/> and online video at <http://www.pba.org/programming/programs/thisisatlanta/peachtreecreek/>

March 19: Peachtree Creek

Assignment: Kaufman, Peachtree Creek, “Section 2 and Section 3”

March 24: Race and Place: Environmental Justice in Atlanta and Emory

Assignment: Robert Bullard, The Black Metropolis in the Twenty-First Century: Race, Power, and Politics of Place, (only pp. 1 – 40)

March 26: Race and Place: Stories of Community Empowerment for Sustainable Ethics

Guest Speaker: Ellen Spears and members of her Community-Building Class

*Assignment: Turn in Portfolio****

March 31: Ecofeminism and Place

Assignment: Tavis Page, “Has Ecofeminism Cornered the Market”

Assignment: Turn in Portfolio

April 2: Sustainability and Spiritual Practices at Emory

Guest Speaker: Ciannat Howett, Director of Sustainability Initiatives

* CLASS CAMPOUT: PINE MOUNTAIN****

Friday, APRIL 3, 1:00 P.M. – Sunday, APRIL 5, 1:00 P.M.

April 7: NO CLASS: BEGIN WORKING ON YOUR FINAL PORTFOLIO

V. HOPE AND PLACE

April 9: Exchanging Places

Assignment: David Abram, Phenomenology of Place

Assignment: Turn in Portfolio

April 14: Personal and Spiritual Guide to Whole Earth Thinking

Assignment: Stephanie Kaza

April 16: Places on the Edge

Assignment: Belden Lane, “Places on the Edge...” and “Fierce Back-Country”

April 21:

Assignment: John Gatta, “Learning to Love Creation”

April 23: Circling Home

Assignment: Telling the Truth as Healing

Assignment: Joanna Macy: Truth Circle

April 28: Placing our Lives After Emory

*MONDAY, MAY 5: PRESENTING PORTFOLIO DUE BY 5PM****

Department of Religion Office, Callaway South 214